REDS CLOSE IN ON NAZI ESCAPE ROAD TO RUMANIA

Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH. FAYETTE

Saturday afternoon while sitting here busily engaged in pounding the typewriter, the phone rang, and as soon as I answered it, a woman's voice said:

"There's dog in Paint Creek near the Main Street bridge. It broke through the ice and will drown if help does not arrive. Can you do something about it?"

I immediately called Police Captain Jess Ellis, knowing that Jess grew up on the farm and is a great lover of dogs. I told him briefly what it was all about.

"We'll go down at once," said the kind-hearted chief, and did.

When he and one of the other policemen reached the scene, armed with equipment to help rescue the dog, they found that some children with whom the dog had been playing had made the rescue but not without some danger to themselves. They had the dog in a nearby house, drying him before a fire.

That reminds me that I have nearly always found police officers generous, kind-hearted and always ready to go out of their way if necessary to perform a real act of kindness.

Recently the World Service Guild of the First Presbyterian Church, established a little "USO" of its own at the Union Bus Station here through courtesy of the operators of the lunch counter there and proceeded to serve free sandwiches and coffee to all men and women in the armed forces who wanted something to eat.

During the several days the organization had its workers at the station they served 350 service people, who expressed their gratefulness for the generosity of the Guild.

The little experiment could stand repeating by others interested in helping place Washington C. H. on the map by giving more attention to transient service men and women.

Last night, instead of giving me her customary "hello," a girl I know asked me "have you had it yet?" I never was famous as an "IT" girl, so I gathered she meant had I escaped the flu.

She hadn't. She had been in bed all last week, "with her jaws swelled out like I had the mumps."

I haven't... not because people haven't tried to convince me that I'm getting IT, either... three times in one day people said to me: "Say, you look like you're getting IT."

That all sounds wonderful... but I'd rather have oomph, personally.

COMPROMISE LOOMS ON SERVICE VOTING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—With both major parties apparently expecting the lion's share of the vote, congressional machinery was stepped up today to drive through a bill to make the absentee voting possible this fall.

Signs pointed to a compromise to give control to the states, with the Army and Navy handling the job of distributing the ballots.

Tossed aside was an earlier plan to create a federal war ballot commission to distribute the ballots and count them upon their return. The Senate passed a substitute which had the effect of urging the various states to handle the problem themselves without assistance from the armed forces.

VETERAN HOSPITAL M. D.'S ON ACTIVE ARMY DUTY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Because of a growing shortage of doctors in veterans' hospitals, the army now is enrolling them in active military service and ordering them to remain on their jobs.

The veterans administration said today many of the approximately 1,400 doctors who are civil service employees in the hospitals have held reserve commissions, but that some were resigning to enter active army duty.

CONGRESS TOLD TOO MANY NOT HELPING IN WAR

Report on State of Nation
Sent To Legislative Branch
Because President Ill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A five points legislative program, headed by enactment of a national service law, was recommended to Congress today by President Roosevelt.

He proposed a national service act for the duration to "prevent strikes" and, with some exceptions, to "make available for war production or for any other essential services every able-bodied adult in this nation."

These were his other four points:

1. "A realistic tax law."
2. Continuation of the law permitting renegotiation of war contracts.
3. A "cost of food law."
4. Re-enactment of the economic stabilization act which expires next June 30.

NATIONAL SERVICE BILL PENDING IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—National service legislation such as President Roosevelt recommended to Congress today already is pending in both houses. Endorsed by top-flight administration officials, the plan has been opposed by spokesmen for organized labor.

The bill provides machinery for drafting men from 18 to 65 and women from 18 to 50 for labor in war plants and on farms.

His legislative program was proposed "in order to concentrate all our energies and resources on winning the war and to maintain a fair and stable economy at home."

His five measures, the chief executive said, "form a just and equitable whole."

The president said he was convinced that a national service act was necessary.

"Although I am convinced," he said, "that we and our allies can win without such a measure, I am certain that nothing less than total mobilization of manpower and capital resources will guarantee an earlier victory."

Supporting his arguments for a national service act, he said millions of Americans "are not in this war at all," and that the act would be a means by which every man and woman could make the fullest possible contribution to victory.

Mr. Roosevelt described "a realistic tax law," the first point in his legislative list, as one which would tax all unreasonable profits, both individual and corporate, and reduce the ultimate cost of the war.

The revenue bill now in Congress, which would yield only about a fifth of what the administration had sought, does not start to meet this test, he said.

Backing up his request for congressional action, he said:

Soldier Vote Question Occupies GOP Chiefs

By JACK BELL

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Republican national committee moved today toward endorsement of a policy of cooperation between the states and the federal government to facilitate absentee voting by members of the armed forces in the November presidential election.

The committee's struggle with what promises to become 1944's

Capture of Tokyo Main Allied Aim

Negotiated Peace Is Out,
Say Adm. Halsey As He Promises More Blows

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., reporting the Japanese fleet is seriously crippled, declared today "we will keep on pressing and hitting him continuously," until Tokyo is occupied.

The 61-year-old commander of naval forces in the South Pacific urged that the American people refuse to accept any peace until troops reach Tokyo.

Halsey told a press conference that "there is only one definite place that has got to be taken and that is Tokyo. Don't let anyone stop us until we get it either."

He said the forces in the Pacific in continuing to pound the Japanese are relying upon keeping the enemy guessing.

"He'll get set in one place and we'll hit him in another," he said.

Asked about the apparent reluctance of the Japanese fleet to fight, he replied:

"Either they are saving their force until we approach the shore of the Japanese empire or

LACK OF MOISTURE IN FARM STATES IS CAUSING CONCERN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Lack of normal rain and snow-fall during the fall months today is causing considerable concern to Agriculture Department officials who have been charged with the task of providing large amounts of food in 1944 for civilians, the armed forces and lend-lease.

The agriculture department said the prospect for a continued heavy volume of crop production in 1944 is not as favorable as it was at the beginning of 1942 and 1943.

The 1942 crop set an all-time record, however, with 1943 figures only slightly lower—and officials point out that an increase in precipitation along with an expected increase in acreage planted this year still would bring in a tremendous food crop.

Fall precipitation from September through December was the lightest since 1939 and about 21 per cent below normal.

Unemployment Looms As War Plants Close

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Chairman Truman (D-Mo) of the Senate's War Investigating Committee said today $8,000,000,000 in army and navy contracts have been cancelled to date and declared the time is coming when some communities will find themselves with "a serious unemployment problem."

"The manpower problem, although paramount today, is nearing its peak," the Senator told the National Retail Dry Goods Association's wartime conference here.

"Without attempting to prophesy the time when the war will end, I can tell you that the production of war material in some items has been so great contracts and about $2,000,000,000 of navy contracts have had to be cancelled.

"This is only the beginning of such cancellations.

Although the manpower problem will continue as a serious one for the nation as a whole, many communities will find that in their area they have a manpower surplus. In some communities, there will be a serious unemployment problem.

"This makes it very important that sound action be taken now to provide for increased production of civilian articles."

The Senator told the retailers care must be taken to maintain adequate stocks while, at the same time, avoiding the risk of building war-time stocks excesses that will carry into peacetime.

Jap Barges Sunk and Bases Blasted By Allied Sea and Air Assaults

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Sea and air attacks on Japanese plane and supply centers accented Allied warfare in the Southwest Pacific, with the enemy's lifeline along the New Guinea coast taking a heavy hammering.

The big base at Madang and its nearby protecting airdromes and defense points were hit with 168 tons of bombs, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said today, making a total of 986 tons laid on supply dumps, gun positions and air fields here in the past 10 days. Three loaded barges were destroyed.

An eight pound, 13-ounce baby boy was born to his wife, Nancy, yesterday at Margaret Hague Hospital, Jersey City. Sinatra, now in Hollywood, said the boy probably would be named Frank, Jr.

The couple's first child, Nancy, is three and a half years old.

COOL RECEPTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's proposal for national service legislation met with a generally cool reception in Congress today.

American light naval units bombarded enemy shore installations at Gali Point, 20 miles south of the Saidor beachhead, and PT boats smashed enemy barges offshore destroying seven loaded with troops and supplies and four more.

Liberator heavy bombers struck the Japanese airbase at Kendari, on the east coast of Celebes Island.

Russia Tells Poland Ukraine To Be Russian

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A clear warning that the Russians will not yield the Ukrainian and White Russian territories incorporated into the Soviet union in 1939 came today from the Soviet government, which at the same time reaffirmed its desire for a strong, independent Poland to be rebuilt with areas wrested from Germany, assuring her an outlet to the Baltic Sea.

In an official declaration broadcast by the Moscow radio, the Russians offered the "Curzon Line" of 1919 as possible basis for a new Russian-Polish S. R. all but 3,800 square miles

Count Ciano Executed By Firing Squad

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Count Galeazzo Ciano was shot to death today, the German Agency DNE announced, after his conviction on charges brought against him for voting to oust his father-in-law, Benito Mussolini, as Italian dictator.

Eighteen members of the Fascist Grand Council were convicted because they voted to oust Mussolini last July 25. The only ones in custody were the Count, Marshal Emilio De Bono, Giovanni Marinelli, Carlo Pareschi and Luciano Gottardi. The others were tried and sentenced in Absentia.

Frontier reports continued contradictory.

One report asserted Pope Pius XII asked clemency for the condemned men.

DRAFT M'CORMICK MOVE IS STARTED

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Republican national revivalist committee wants the Republican party organization to join its movement to draft Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, for president.

A resolution to that effect was passed last night after James J. Culwin, organization committee chairman, said more than enough names have been obtained on petitions to put Col. McCormick's name on the ballot as a presidential candidate in the Illinois preferential primary.

Col. McCormick recently announced he did not wish to be entered in the election.

YANKS ADVANCE IN ITALY WITH FIERCE FIGHTING

Berlin and Sofia Blasted
During Night, U. S. Bombers
Follow Up in Day Raid

By RICHARD McMURRAY

Bombs crashed down on Berlin and Sofia last night as Russian armies, driving swiftly over the bodies of 12,000 German dead, struck within seven miles of the Bug River and within 21 of the Odessa-Warsaw railway, last major enemy escape route into threatened Rumania.

The Berlin radio said heavy U. S. bombers attacked central Germany around noon today.

Moscow dispatches said Red army spearheads thrusting toward Rumania had reached the east bank of the Bug River. The Germans reported a renewed Russian assault in the Crimea from the Russian bridgehead north of Kerch and that a battle flamed all day yesterday for Sarny, rail junction 35 miles inside old Poland.

The Fifth Army in Italy fought into the outskirts of Cervaro and won a hill overlooking the road to Cassino and the Garigliano River in the slow campaign toward Rome. Mt. Trocchio, less than three miles from Cassino, was under attack. The Eighth Army patrolled near the Adriatic. In that sea, British destroyers sank three schooners, damaged and forced the Germans to abandon four others, and shelled railways along the sea and the Ancona marshaling yards.

Russian troops have opened a new attack from their bridgehead northeast of Kerch in the Crimea, and fighting continues, the Nazi high command announced today in a broadcast communique.

There was no Russian confirmation of renewed battle in the Kerch area, where for weeks both sides have reported little activity. The Soviets first attacked across the Kerch straits after cleaning up the Caucasus opposite the Crimea.

The greatest slaughter of Germans was north of recaptured Kirovograd where the Russians said 8,000 remnants of five divisions were wiped out when they refused to surrender.

The First Ukrainian Army of Gen. Vatutin cut two lines feeding the Odessa-Warsaw railroad squeezed Germans in the upper Dnieper bend area between themselves and the second Ukrainian Army of Gen. Konev. The pocket was being forged around the rail city of Smela.

In all 116 villages were captured in the Ukraine yesterday. Shepetovka, a rail junction commanding the approaches to the southern half of old Poland, was menaced from three directions. Russian vanguards were within 13 miles of Vinnitsa.

Allied planes from Italy bombed the Bulgarian capital of Sofia in swift follow-up of the daylight raid yesterday by Flying Fortresses. Two Forts were

BIG V OVER MOON DRAWS ATTENTION

A number of persons Monday night shortly after 7 o'clock noticed a huge V over the moon in the eastern sky, and called attention of others to the unusual sight.

Two thin layers of ribbed cirrus clouds in the shape of a huge letter V held their position over the moon for several minutes.

Many who saw the phenomenon declared instantly it means Victory over America's enemies this year.

20 FROM HERE ARE ACCEPTED IN ARMED FORCES

Ten Assigned To Navy and Ten To Army from Last Induction Group

Twenty of the 32 men sent to Ft. Hayes in Columbus for induction Thursday were accepted for army or navy service, the Selective Service board here said Tuesday.

The men accepted for naval training will have one week's leave and the men slated for army training will have three weeks' furlough from the time of their induction.

This group of men will be the next-to-last to be inducted into service under the old plan, which gives men their leaves and furloughs after induction.

The men are:

Navy—Robert Erley Fortier, Joseph Deafner Craig, Taylor Bowshier, Eugene Wilbur Green, Walter Carlton West, Wayne Eugene Taylor, James Eugene Bell, Ralph Edwin Irons, Darrell Glendon Wood—Tran, from Erie, Pa., Frank Coulter.

Army—Joseph Ellsworth Oyer, Eugene Fletcher, Paul Arthur Shoultz, James Carson Cummings, Frank Ellsworth Creamer, John Bradley Morton, Jr., Lawrence Eliza Brown, Jr., William Eugene Poole, Howard Lee Shiltz, Maxwell Burdette Lynch.

"All of these rights spell 'security,'" the president said. "And after this war is won we must be prepared to move forward in the implementation of these rights, to new goals of human happiness and well being.

"America's own rightful place in the world depends in large part upon how fully these and similar rights have been carried into practice for our citizens. For unless there is security here at home there cannot be lasting peace in the world."

If history were to repeat and America were to return to the so-called normalcy of the 1920's, he said, it is certain that though we have conquered enemies on battlefields abroad, "we shall have yielded to the spirit of Fascism here at home." All clear thinking business men, he added, share a concern over the grave dangers which would ensue from a "rightist reaction" in America.

It is definitely the responsibility of Congress, the president emphasized, to explore methods to effectuate the economic bill of rights. Some of its features already are covered by pending legislation, he said, and he added that he would communicate with Congress from time to time on these and further proposals.

He gave Congress this warning: "In the event that no adequate program of progress is evolved I am certain that the nation will be conscious of the fact.

"Our fighting men abroad—and their families at home—expect such a program and have the right to insist upon it. It is to their demands that this government should pay heed rather than to the whining demands of selfish pressure groups who seek to feather their nests while young Americans are dying."

Although he did not make the recommendation at this point, the president appealed for federal legislation to give Soldiers, Sailors and Marines the right to vote.

Men in uniform know that an overwhelming majority of them will be deprived of a chance to vote, he said, if the matter is left entirely to the states under existing state laws, and there is no likelihood of these laws being changed in time to let them vote at the next election.

"It is the duty of Congress," Mr. Roosevelt said, "to remove this unjustifiable discrimination against the men and women in our armed forces—and to do it as quickly as possible."

No amount of legalistic argument, he said, can beloud the issue in the eyes of 10,000,000 Americans in uniform.

Deadly snake venoms, used as medicine, now save lives.

NATIONAL SERVICE IS RECOMMENDED BY FDR IN CONGRESS MESSAGE

Continuation of contract renegotiation, the chief executive asserted it would prevent "exorbitant profits and assure fair prices to the government." He recalled that he had pleaded with Congress for two years to take undue profits out of war.

On this third point, a "cost of food" law, he said it should enable the government to put a reasonable floor under farm prices and a ceiling on the prices that consumers pay. It should apply only to necessities, he declared, and public funds will be required to effectuate it. He figured the cost would be about one percent of the present annual cost of war.

Unless the stabilization statute is renewed, he said, the country can expect "price chaos by summer." Stabilization cannot be accomplished by wishful thinking, he said, and positive action must be taken to maintain the integrity of the dollar.

The president touched with relative brevity, at the outset of his message, on the war conferences which took place overseas in the final weeks of 1943. He hailed them as intended to prevent mistakes made at the conclusion of the last war.

"Of course, we made some commitments," he said. "We most certainly committed ourselves to very large and very specific military plans which require the use of all Allied forces to bring about the defeat of our enemies at the earliest possible time.

"But there were no secret treaties or political or financial commitments."

Mr. Roosevelt warned against over-confidence and complacency, asserting the way to fight and win the war is "all out" and not with half an eye on battlefronts and half an eye on personal, selfish, or political interests at home.

He said he hoped Congress would recognize that while 1944 is a political year, "national service is an issue which transcends politics."

He said he believed the American people would welcome a measure based on a just principle of "fair for one, fair for all."

WAR LOAN DRIVE FINANCING FUND IS TO BE RAISED

Six-man Committee To Start Hurry-up Campaign Here Wednesday

A six-man committee headed by W. Emmett Passmore today had completed its plans and was ready to start on a swift canvass of Washington C. H. and Fayette County Wednesday to raise funds with which to meet expenses for carrying on the forthcoming Fourth War Loan drive, which is to start here January 18.

Passmore said he did not know how long it would take to raise the $500 calculated as necessary to conduct the drive, but he declared "we will waste no time and will finish it as soon as possible." He pointed out that Ed Suntheimer, John Sagar, Loren Hynes, A. B. McDonald and Clifford E. Hughes, the other five members of the committee, would have to sidetrack their own affairs to make the canvass and that none could afford to prolong the job longer than was necessary. He expressed both the hope and conviction that the people approached would appreciate that "these are busy men" and cooperate by making their contributions without undue delay.

The sale will start at 10 A. M. and there will be two or three auctioneers due to the large amount of property that must be disposed of.

The administrators, Dr. J. A. McCoy and Mrs. Laura Collett, are conducting the sale.

Medium Mosquito bombers of the RAF attacked Berlin without loss in their ninth foray of the year. They also hit unspecified targets in western Germany.

The British Air Ministry, on the basis of raids up to December 21, concluded that the Berlin nerve centers through which Germany rules Europe had been virtually wiped out in the massive attacks on the capital.

The rubble buildings include Hitler's Reich Chancellery, Goering's offices, Gestapo headquarters, the foreign office, treasury, home office, army records office and ministries of justice, transport, food, agriculture, armaments and munitions. The home of Goebbels and the official residences of Himmler and von Ribbentrop were destroyed and more than 628 acres in the middle of the central government district were leveled. The bomb list included 98 identified industrial plants.

Yugoslav partisans appeared hard pressed by five German columns attacking in central and western Bosnia. Marshal Tito said the partisans were taking a heavy toll and had denied success to the strong German tank and motorized formations. Heavy Allied bombers attacked Skopje, Yugoslav rail center.

Forest Shade Grange Hears About Service On 70th Anniversary

"The service we render to the community is the rent we pay for being in the world," C. C. Linerode, state grange lecturer, told the more than 80 members of Forest Shade Grange at their 70th anniversary meeting Monday night.

"Home is the nucleus of human life," Linerode continued. He said children get hereditary training in the home, environmental training in the school to get ready to take their places in the community, to become valuable citizens or not as their training warrants."

He traced man's attempts to improve agricultural conditions from the time of the cave man until now, comparing farmers' troubles with markets and prices to the privations endured by our servicemen. "It is important that people maintain a patriotic fervor now," Linerode said.

"Forest Shade Grange was organized 70 years ago by a group of thrifty people who wanted to learn more about farming. In time, they grew to be an organization giving real service to its community," Linerode continued.

First worthy master of Forest Shade Grange was William C. Eyre, named soon after the grange's organization on January 12, 1874. There were 30 charter members, L. T. Ellis said as he gave a history of the grange. The oldest member in point of service is Miss Belle Todhunter, daughter of one of the charter members. Mrs. Stella Hendryx is another daughter of a charter member.

The grange was organized at the old Forest Shade School, now replaced by Plain View School a mile north of New Martinsburg. The group met on Saturday afternoons twice a month. Minutes of every meeting except for 1874

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

How many of you noted the highly important declaration by James C. Dunn, state department advisor on European political relations, that but for the agreement reached at the Moscow conference by Russia, America, Britain and China, a third World War was certain?

"These four nations," said Mr. Dunn in a week-end broadcast for the state department, "committed themselves to a policy of continuing cooperation. If they hadn't done so the dread certainty of a third World War would have settled on us even before World War II was finished."

While he didn't mention "alliances," his disclosure fits well with a statement made in this column about a month ago on the question of peace versus war. I revert to the subject because it represents one of the greatest problems of the day—of our generation, for that matter.

In the previous column I recorded that there's a very considerable school which feels that, looking at the matter from a purely horse-sense viewpoint, the maintenance of peace must depend on a military alliance among the big three—America, Russia and Britain—just as the winning of this war hinges on the continued cooperation of these three dominant world-powers on the battle-field.

The reader may recall the blunt appraisal of this question recently in London by Field Marshal Jan Smuts, prime minister of South Africa and one of the great soldier-statesmen of our time. Said he:

"These three powers must retain the leadership in war and in peace and be responsible, in the first instance for the maintenance of security and for the preservation of World peace; and this primary responsibility will not be affected by any duties resting on the rest of the United Nations."

It strikes me that if the lesson of the League of Nations means anything, it is that any peace organization to be successful at this juncture of our history must have as a nucleus an alliance of the dominant powers which are agreed to maintain peace by force if necessary. Around this nucleus may be formed a United Nations. Certainly China should be included in the alliance, but at the moment her strength is potential rather than actual, because of the ravages of her protracted war with Japan.

The big three, taken as a unit, have the physical strength to enforce their decisions. If the advocates of this alliance are right, then peace can be maintained just so long as the trio hangs together. Peace will be in danger the moment the combination breaks up.

Those who are opposed to alliances in general may find this idea hard to accept. However, its exponents point to the two World wars of our time as demonstrating that any major conflict must become global, between blocs of Allied nations, and that neither the United States nor any other great power can avoid being enmeshed. Geography no longer provides for any country.

Since we were in an alliance in the last war, and are in another now, it's argued that it's a logical step to continue the pact for the purpose of maintaining peace and security. Of course, not to hope for permanent peace someday, and to work for it, would be to deny our religion and civilization. However, the fact that we arm heavily and make alliances to keep the peace doesn't mean that we are cultivating militarism. Indeed, our government already has decided that once this war is over we must return to the way of our Pilgrim fathers and plow with rifles handy.

There's one fear which I constantly encounter in discussing this burning problem. Many Americans are afraid that an alliance with Russia may in some way result in Communism being thrust upon this country, or at least in the barrier to it being lowered. They seem to have the idea for some reason that they must be kind to the "ism" because of friendship with the Soviet union. However, I haven't

BROTHERS DRAW $100 AND COSTS

Theft of Auto Tire Here Several Months Ago

Howard and Clifford French, of New Holland, who had just completed serving out a fine of $100 and costs in the Pickaway County jail, for theft of 50 pounds of sugar in New Holland last October, were each fined $100 and costs by Justice George Worrell, Monday afternoon, on charges of stealing an auto tire at the Crone service station in October.

The sugar was stolen from a truck parked in New Holland, while the truck was being unloaded in front of a store. When the tire was stolen here and when Sheriff Icenhower searched the premises of the French brothers in New Holland, the tire was located and recovered.

They are now in the Fayette County jail serving out their fines.

Sheriff Icenhower brought the pair here from Circleville over the week-end. yet found anyone who can explain why we are under obligation to foster any political belief we don't want, any more than Russia is under obligation to accept our American form of government. We don't have to establish a monarchy because of a close working agreement with Britain and we should fight the idea tooth and nail if it were proposed.

STRIKE THREATS AND GOVERNMENT CONTROL

"The struggle over wages resulting in government seizure of the railways to prevent a wartime strike that seemed imminent has emphasized some important facts that should now be plain to the public," says Railway Age.

"It has proved a myth the prevalent belief that the railway unions have unusually conservative, patriotic and statesmanlike leaders. The advance of 9 cents an hour awarded by President Roosevelt to the locomotive engineers and trainmen has shown, as did the wage advances given the coal miners, that the government is not adhering to its wage stabilization formula for 'holding the line' against inflation. And the long series of developments in the railway wage disputes should have destroyed the widely accepted myth that the Railway Labor Act is a sovereign means of peacefully settling labor disputes.

"The Railway Labor Act broke down in 1941 when the unions rejected wage advances recommended by a board appointed by President Roosevelt; and a nation-wide railway strike would have occurred on the very day that the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor if the President had not intervened, and, in disregard of the Railway Labor Act, caused a larger advance in wages than his Board had recommended.

"The breakdown of the Railway Labor Act in 1943 was even more complete. The government last spring appointed two boards—one to pass on the demands of the non-operating unions; the other to pass on those of the operating unions. The railways merely opposed any wage advances that would exceed the limits fixed by the Stabilization Act to 'hold the line' against inflation. The boards recommended increases of 8 cents an hour for the non-operating employees and of 4 cents an hour for the operating employees. What has occurred since has been, considering that we have been at war, one of the most disgraceful episodes in the nation's history—an episode in which the railways have had almost no part, excepting to stand by and see the government and labor unions carry on a struggle threatening their wartime efficiency and involving the future of their properties.

"The railroads accepted the recommendations of the two government boards first appointed. They later bowed to the decisions of Economic Stabilizer Vinson and a third government board that the increases to the non-operating employees should be, not 8 cents, but 4 to 10 cents an hour. After the operating unions rejected 4 cents an hour and the non-operating unions 4 to 10 cents, and ordered a strike on December 30, the railroads and two of the five operating unions accepted President Roosevelt's proposal that he be allowed to arbitrate everything in dispute, including pay for overtime after 40 hours which had not been involved in the original disputes. It was understood that the fifteen non-operating unions also accepted his arbitration; but because three operating unions did not, he seized the railroads and there was no strike.

"The President settled with the two operating unions that accepted his 'arbitration' by awarding them, as already stated, 9 cents an hour—5 cents an hour for so-called 'overtime' in addition to the 4 cents that had been recommended by a government board as the most they could be given without violating the Stabilization Act. Then it developed that the leaders of the three operating unions that had refused his arbitration had merely 'postponed' their strike, apparently for the duration of government control, and that the fifteen non-operating unions refused to let the President arbitrate as a single issue whether they should get advances of 4 to 10 cents an hour and, in addition, overtime after 40 hours. And so when this paper went to press nothing had been accomplished after months of muddling excepting (1) postponement of a strike by government seizure of the railroads and (2) the awarding to the locomotive engineers and trainmen of a wage advance more than twice as large as a government board had held they could be given without violating the government's 'hold the line' anti-inflation formula.

"The army, to which the railroads were turned over, does not wish to retain control of them a day longer than the danger of a strike continues. The public, and especially the shipping public, desires the earliest practicable resumption of private operation. Is it possible, then, that the railway labor unions, or even only a small part of them, by holding over the country the threat of a strike, can cause continuance of government control indefinitely? And, if so, cannot other labor unions by the same means drive other large industries into the hands of the government and keep them there?

"The time evidently has come, and the railway situation presents an opportunity, for the public to settle very promptly whether strikes and threats of strikes in war time are to be permitted to dictate fundamental policies of government."

He is the new clerk. Ralph Agle is the retiring vice-president.

Other members of the board are Ralph Agle, Gilbert Coil and Hugh Creamer. Allen and Creamer were re-elected in November for a four-year term.

FERGUSON WILL ACCEPT HONOR IN THIS CITY

18th District Wants Him as Favorite Son for President

Added interest to the forthcoming Democratic rally in this city Wednesday night comes in an announcement from Joseph T. Ferguson, state auditor, who said that at the meeting to be held here he will accept formally an endorsement as favorite son for the Democratic presidential nomination given him by the 18th district Democratic leaders.

Ferguson was selected during a meeting in Steubenville Sunday, the auditor's office reported, and he will accept during the Democratic rally here.

The 18th district leaders endorsed John F. Nolan, Jefferson County chairman, as delegate-at-large. A. A. Davis, Belmont County chairman, and Arthur H. Milleson, Harrison County chairman, were endorsed as delegates pledged to Ferguson. Alternates were Ralph Hart of Carroll County and M. L. McGeehan of Columbiana County. Earl Applegate, former Steubenville mayor, was endorsed as presidential elector.

The action has aroused considerable interest. Some sources saw in it a possible effort by Ferguson, only Democrat in an important elective state position, to take over the state delegation at the national convention.

Doolittle May Be A Major General But He's Still A Bird In A Plane

By HAL BOYLE

EN ROUTE TO ITALY BY AIR, Jan 11 —(AP)—When the take off with Jimmy Doolittle as pilot, your head is in the clouds before your stomach leaves sea level.

The new head of America's Britain-based 8th Airforce still flies with the same zip that once made him the Army's premier speed pilot. He handles his big ship as easily as if it were a Spitfire and he isn't stingy about picking up aerial hitchhikers.

There were six of us in the Martin Marauder as it warmed up on a North African field for the take-off—Major General Doolittle; his co-pilot, Col. Reuber Kyle, of Columbus, Ga.; his navigator, Lieut. Gilbert Lawson, of Hot Springs, Ark.; his crew chief staff, Sgt. H. M. Lazarus, of New York City; Col. Tim Manning, of Oakland, Calif.; a west coast transportation executive, and myself.

Just as Doolittle started to taxi over to the runway, a jeep drove up with a colonel and two lieutenants. "Got room for a couple more passengers?" the colonel asked. "Sure, have them climb in," the general answered.

Up clambered Lieut. Clyde L. Davis, of Virginia Beach, Va., and Lieut. Jack O. Brady, of Dallas, Tex.

The crew chief quickly closed the door, Doolittle spun the big plane gracefully across the taxi strip to the runway. He raced the motors a moment, then called out, "All set." It was a statement rather than a question.

The next instant, the B-26 lunged down the runway. The mud-streaked roadway outside was a blur. Inside the fuselage, nothing could be heard above the straining motors.

Before we could straighten ourselves out, the Marauder rose from the ground and headed skyward like a lark late for choir practice.

At 3,000 feet, Doolittle leveled off and the roll of muscle along the back of his neck relaxed above the edge of his brown leather flying jacket.

Jimmy is like a wild bird at the cockpit controls. His chunky, powerful body is never still. His head moves in quick jerks as he peers out the side windows or glances up through the canopy. His eyes, except when he smiles, have the bright, hard look of a hawk.

After buzzing across a few mountain tops, the general headed across the Mediterranean. Later he turned the controls over to Col. Kyle.

"My book," Doolittle said to Lazarus, who got a paper backed volume of modern short-stories out of the musette bag. The general put on a pair of silver rimmed glasses.

A few hours before we reached our landing field, Doolittle shut his book and took over the controls again. He circled the field once and then the big plane suddenly glided down like a great feathery owl about to strike. The descent was so swift we had to swallow several times to keep our stomachs out of our tonsils.

Then Doolittle put the wheels down so lightly there was scarcely a jar although a B-26 hits the runway at well over a hundred miles an hour. The general braked down the bomber, swung it off the runway on to a hard spot, and the trip was over.

"Some pilot," said Brady. "You know who he is, don't you?" he was asked.

"No."

"You are riding with General Doolittle."

"My Lord, you mean Jimmy Doolittle! Are we hitching with him? That's the first time I ever heard of a major general driving for a lieutenant."

When the two lieutenants tried to thank the general, he gave them one of his famous grins, then jumped into a waiting motorcar.

The rain dance of the Hopi Indians is a ceremony more than 2,000 years old.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

When will this war end? Nobody knows, so the Army is continuing its training of Para-Ski Troopers. They're parachute troops who know their way about on skis or any other place in snow covered mountainous country.

A great measure of the success of Russia's victories last winter is attributed to these troops who move with the silence of a snowflake. Our work on the home front is not so hazardous as that of the Para-Ski Troopers but it is important that we perform our daily tasks and make every effort to increase our regular purchase of War Bonds.

Fayette County's Selective Service board today is awaiting full instructions from Col. C. W. Goble, state selective service director, concerning their notification to start calling men for the new one-day pre-induction physical examinations next Monday and to discontinue screen tests February 1.

The board has a brief telegram, outlining the new plan, but is waiting for a letter giving complete instructions before taking any steps to carry out the system, one of the members explained.

Although screen tests may be given for the rest of this month, selective service officials explained none will be given here since there are already enough men in 1-A to fill the February call.

Col. Goble said the order would make Ohio's pre-induction procedure conform with the new national program whereby men passing their physicals will be subject to call for induction not less than 21 days later, unless they request immediate service.

Under Ohio's program, local boards will continue making blood tests in advance of induction examinations until Feb. 1 and also will call up men for pre-induction tests during the last half of the month, Goble explained. Screen tests will be continued for men with obvious physical defects, however.

Under the new set-up, induction candidates will be sent to present induction stations in Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo, Cincinnati, Huntington, W. Va., and Clarksville, W. Va. Those stations probably will become only examining boards after Jan. 31, it was explained.

Men passing examinations will be returned to their homes for three weeks and they will be inducted at Ft. Hayes, Col. Ft. Thomas, Ky., or Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind. Most Ohioans probably will be inducted at the latter reception center, Goble asserted. Men who are not called within 90 days after examination will be given new tests.

Because the examining staff at the Columbus induction station operates only the first half of the month and in Toledo the last half, Goble said men from this area called for pre-induction examinations this month would be sent to other induction stations in Ohio and West Virginia.

Goble said that men appealing 1-A classifications must report for pre-induction examinations as called even though no action has been taken on their appeal. Any appeal decision will be considered when made but lack of action can not delay physical examinations, he added.

Selective service has banned occupational deferments for draft registrants 18 through 21 years old, effective Feb. 1.

The action, announced by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, is designed to make it at least 115,000 more non-fathers eligible for military duty. Hershey warned, however, the move will not long postpone drafting of pre-war fathers.

Exceptions to the new regulation include the 405,680 farm workers in the 18-21 age group and registrants with industrial deferments. The latter group must have the approval of state draft directors in order to retain their deferment status. Student deferments likewise are curtailed.

API PRAISED BY HILL FOR BOND BUYING HERE

Workers Won't Hold Back In Fourth War Loan, He Predicts

With so many men working for $50 a month, facing death and danger daily it is inconceivable that API workers here would hold back their dollars in the Fourth War Loan drive starting next Tuesday," F. E. Hill, chairman of the War Finance Committee here said today.

"If the workers practice the safety rules laid down by the company, there is small chance of their being injured if they keep their wits about them—and they can do their part by producing equipment for the boys over there as well as buying bonds," Hill continued.

He praised the API workers' contributions and pointed out the 1300 employees are putting about $20,000 monthly into bonds.

Getting materials ready for the workers meeting of the War Finance Committee Friday night, Hill reported "everything all set" for the big push to begin next Tuesday.
